

Dog Kisses Camp came into existence because of an increasing awareness of the need for pet owners to feel secure about the well-being of their animals during their absence.

Animals are social creatures, which, if left to their own devices, may become depressed and exhibit poor behaviour because of the feelings of abandonment and isolation in the absence of their "people" family.

Our goal is to provide your animals with a continuum of their normal life and schedule in order to reduce any anxiety that may be felt during your absence. While you are away, you may contact us so that we can provide you with an update on your pets.

Sandi Renfro owner of Dog Kisses Camp has had animal companions all of her life, be it dogs, cats, horses (even a couple of reptiles in her younger years)! Her love for animals draws her to them in a mutual close bond.

She has resided in Contra Costa County since 1987, when she moved from Tennessee with her two young children, two toy poodles, and her Tennessee Walker (TWH) stallion.

She has adopted ARF poodles over the last few years, one of whom still lives with her along with Sonny cat, and she now is breaking the TWH colt sired by her beloved stallion, Sir Ebony Chance, who died in February of 2005.
